6. Read the following passage and answer the questions given at the end : 5

Happy is the man who acquires the habit of reading when he is young. He has secured a life-long source of pleasure, instruction and inspiration. So long as he has his beloved books, he need never feel lonely. He always has a pleasant occupation of leisure moments, so that he need never feel bored. He is the possessor of wealth more precious than gold. Ruskin calls books "King's Treasuries"- treasuries filled, not with gold and silver and precious stones, but with riches much more valuable than these- knowledge, noble thoughts and high ideals. Poor indeed is the man who does not read and enjoy his life. Provided we choose the right kind of books and read simply for pleasure and amusement- for example, good novels. And novels and books of imagination must find their place in everybody's reading. When we are tired or the brain is weary with serious study, it is healthy recreation to lose ourselves in some absorbing story written by a master mind.

Questions :

- (i) Why is the man who has acquired the habit of reading described as a happy man ?
- (ii) In what respect is he richer than other people ?

(iii) What has the writer to say about books which do not provide serious study ?

(iv) Which books does the writer recommend as the right kind of reading ?

(v) Suggest a suitable title for this passage.
